Mathematical Physics Solar, Nepal has two main universities offering undergraduate and master studies in physics: Kathmandu University and Tribhuvan University. Physics Without Frontiers Masterclass projects have run 2014 and 2016 in both cases where the two universities have collaborated together and organised two day training sessions. Department of natural sciences focuses on the interdisciplinary applications of mathematical sciences, physics, chemistry, and biology in various disciplines. Foundations of these subjects are taught to undergraduates of up to fifth semester in computer engineering, mechanical engineering, electrical and electronics engineering, civil and
